EQC, councilmen again focus on industrial expansion issue

By VICKI MARSH

Four city councilmen, one of them a member of the Economic Development Board (EDB), attended the Environmental Quality Commission (EQC) meeting Monday night. What followed was another in a long line of animated discussions on the pros and cons of bringing additional industries to Sedalia, and their effect on the environment.

Third Ward Democrat Carl Franklin, a member of the EDB; First Ward Democrat Gary Dey, Fourth Ward Democrat Ray Hendricks and Third Ward Democrat Russell Bellamy attended the meeting. Not in attendance was James Hamm, Sedalia's economic development director and member of the EQC, who was out of town.

The meeting began with a film by the American Lung Association on atmospheric quality, which led to a discussion of the dangers of combined chemical emissions into the air from industries which could locate in Sedalia.

"Depending on what industries we get we'll be depositing different chemicals in the air. Sometimes you can get some pretty lethal combinations," said Mrs. Judy Berenyi, chairman of the EQC.

"EPA (Environmental Protection Agency) and DNR (Department of Natural Resources) have to accept certain amounts of pollution but we (the city) don't have to. We can be choosy. The city can set its own standards," Mrs. Berenyi said.

"The power is in your (the council's) hands as to what is going to be coming into this town in the next few years," she added.

"No one (in EQC) has ever said we don't want any industry under any circumstances," said George Berenyi, a member of EQC. "We want specific and conscious consideration of industries that want to come to Sedalia. If a company is going to create an overwhelmingly unfavorable impact on Sedalia's environment, that company should be rejected," he said.

Franklin stated he believed a misconception existed between the two groups.

"No one on the board (EDB) believes that EQC people do not want any industry or that any of us (the EDB) want to bring polluting industries to town. Those are two extremes that we got off on that's wrong," Franklin said.

"I sit in on these meetings (EDB) and they are concerned. There's no reason the two can't work together," Franklin added.

A situation to be avoided, according to the EQC, is a combination of environmental problems at the Industrial Park.

"You have to consider a combination of things," said Mrs. Berenyi, posing a hypothetical situation where one industry affects the north waste water treatment plant and another industry pollutes the air. "This is what EDB has to consider," she said.

Franklin agreed. "Now you're making a point. We (the city) are in a position now where we can be more picky, choosier than in the past on pay wages and the impact on the community," Franklin said, referring to increased employment rates in Sedalia.

The overloading of the south waste water treatment plant was cited as an example of the kinds of problems that can arise. Careful forethought has to be given to the industries locating in the Industrial Park and the load they will place on Sedalia's services, according to the EQC.

"When Sedalia almost got fined, then they did something about it," Mrs. Berenyi said, referring to the metal emission standards of Rival Manufacturing Co , which discharges into the city's south plant. Rival, facing a July 1 state deadline to comply with emission standards, is currently operating within state guidelines.

"What you're basically saying is that

Teasdale inks 15 bills

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Gov. Joseph Teasdale signed 15 bills into law today. One allows any city, regardless of size, to enact a city sales tax and another makes it unlawful to copy records or tapes without the owner's consent.

The governor also signed a measure which allows the state to care for homeless and dependent children in all counties. A bill requiring that all proposed constitutional amendments, initiative or referendum proposals include a fiscal note as part of the ballot was also signed into law.

Teasdale approved a bill which exempts certain teachers from completing a two-hour course in psychology and education of the exceptional child.

Under the city sales tax bill, any city under 500 population could enact a city sales tax of one-half or one cent in addition to the state sales tax of three cents. Previously, only cities of more than 500 population could enact such a tax. The tax would have to approved by the voters.

Persons making and selling copies of phonograph records, tape recordings or films without the owner's consent would be guilty of a felony under the "bootleg tape" bill. It would be a misdemeanor to advertise such copies knowing they were made without permission of the owner. All recordings will be required to show clearly the name of the manufacturer and the artist on the label.

The homeless child bill allows the state Divison of Family Service to care for homeless or dependent children in all counties, not just those in second, third or fourth class counties. Care includes room, board, clothing, medical and dental care, social services and incidentals. The measure is expected to cost the state about $2 million in the first full year it is in operation.

The bill requiring a fiscal note on each proposed constitutional amendment, initiative or referendum is designed to inform voters how much the proposal would cost the state if enacted.

Teasdale also signed measures revising the retirement benfit formula for nonteachers in a school system; revising regulation and licensing of funeral directors; and bringing the Missouri Employment Security Law into compliance with federal law.

Teasdale also announced that he was vetoing two bills. One of the measures would have exempted the pay of national guard members from wages when determining unemployment benfits.

A measure designed to raise the minimum salary for probation and parole officers was also vetoed by the governor. Under the bill, the officers would receive a salary increase from $9,000 a year to $10,500 a year.

Board awaits Mark Twain confrontation

A total of 1,826 signatures have been secured on petitions calling for the retention of the Mark Twain school, Mrs. Robert Vit, who led the petition drive, said Tuesday.

"We feel it has been a tremendous success," said Mrs. Vit of the impromptu drive, which got underway after the school board last month voted to restructure the local school system by abandoning the storm-damaged Mark Twain building and converting the Junior High School to a middle school by adding on 15 more classrooms to house sixth grade students.

Mrs. Vit and others have stated they plan to attend tonight's meeting of the school board, slated to begin at 7:30 p.m. at the board offices, 400 West Fourth. However, Superintendent of Schools Kem Keithly said Tuesday, this meeting may be moved to the larger, air-conditioned junior high school if a sufficient crowd shows up.

Mrs. Vit said Tuesday she feels there's a good chance this will happen.

"We hope to have a good public showing, to let the board know how we feel," she said. "We just hope the end result will be as successful as our petition drive was."

Asked if he felt tonight's meeting will be one of the more important

HUD findings one-sided, biased, Albright says

By DAN POTTER
Staff Writer

In a six-page letter addressed to U.S. Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell, the regional director of the Department of Housing and Urban Development and a host of other state and federal officials, the Rev. Marvin Albright, director of the Sedalia Housing Authority, criticized HUD investigation findings Friday, which are critical of his administration, as being one-sided.

He also charged that he personally was the victim of discrimination by virtue of being white.

In the letter, Mr. Albright said HUD's Fair Housing and Equal Opportunity Office officials in Sedalia last week did "precisely" what they "accused the Housing Authority of doing, namely, basing decisions and opinions on hearsay, rather than objective facts."

The three Housing Authority members present at Monday's meeting, Chairman Clyde Robinson, Marvin Welch and Mrs. Ramonia Otten, agreed with the content and conclusions in Mr. Albright's letter and passed a motion to that effect.

Walter Cade, director of the Kansas City, Kan., Fair Housing and Equal Opportunity office, said Friday the investigation found discrimination in the Housing Authority's administration of the Anthony Buckner Apartments, which the authority governs.

At Friday's meeting, Cade said:

— Some persons are not paying enough rent, $60 to $70 too low in some cases.

— Accounts receivable are "very, very high."

— In reference to people being turned down for housing at Anthony Buckner, there are too many allusions to poor personal references.

— Some 17- and 18-year-old girls were told they were too young for public housing, and that is contrary to HUD regulations.

— There were authority meetings where members discussed "who is shacking up with who," and that is also not HUD policy and must be stopped.

— No one can be rejected for public housing unless there are legitimate HUD regulations to prevent it, and deciding to reject someone because of what Mr. Albright or a board member hears about them in the community is discriminatory and likewise should be stopped.

Mr. Albright had an opportunity to answer those allegations Friday but declined, saying then that another HUD investigation is being conducted and he would let that investigation "speak for itself." However, he did say Friday that many of the allegations were not true, but he did not elaborate.

The other investigation Mr. Albright referred to is a review of the management and occupancy of public housing here, which is required by HUD each year.

The charges made by Cade Friday are an outgrowth of complaints Cade said he had received for several months in addition to other charges made against Mr. Albright and the Housing Authority board at a May 3 Partners for Progress meeting. Partners for Progress is a local primarily black organization.

In the letter, Mr. Albright said of the May 3 meeting, "Many charges were levelled, some quite serious and from our perspective none of which contained the truth."

Mr. Albright's letter continued, "I've mentioned this meeting because it appeared to be the basis of allegations stated publicly and in the presence of the news media by Mr. Cade" at Friday's meeting.

Mr. Albright contended in the letter that Cade's charges should not have been made public without having been discussed with him first.

Conceding that the authority had received five complaints of discrimination since the first of the year, Mr. Albright said this was largely due to the authority's "more stern approach" in evicting tenants for destruction of property and nonpayment of rent. He also said screening procedures had been tightened as to those admitted to public housing

Mr. Albright criticized the federal investigators for not hearing both sides in looking into complaints, asking, "since when are complaints, accusations and charges self-proving?"

Near the end of his letter, Mr. Albright stated:

"It's a tough job being director of a housing complex in 1977, and given our conditions in Sedalia, I would raise questions about the capabilities of either the complainants or the (federal) investigators doing a better job than we are doing. It appears to me that even a common criminal has more rights and gets more justice than I or the Authority have been afforded during the recent "investigations."

He also said the real purpose of his own letter is to make two points.

First, "I feel that Cade's office has been guilty of discrimination against me because I'm white and...on the basis of data limited to complainants whose knowledge of me and authority operations and policies is limited, to say the least."

Second, Mr. Albright claimed that the

More breaks for poor elderly

Tax relief bill to governor

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — An additional tax reduction for the low-income elderly, estimated at $3.6 million, was approved by the Missouri Legislature today and sent to Gov. Joseph P. Teasdale.

The proposal, which was overwhelmingly approved by the House Monday, was endorsed 31-0 today by the Senate.

Under the proposal, persons over 65 and earning less than $2,400 would receive an income tax credit or rebate equal to all their property taxes or 20 per cent of their rent. There is a $500 limit.

The proposal increases the "circuit breaker" tax reduction for individuals with incomes up to $6,200.

It is the second liberalization of the circuit breaker tax relief program since it was approved by voters in 1972.

Clearing the legislature Monday and going to Gov. Joseph Teasdale was a proposed sales tax exemption for the steel platforms supporting air and water pollution control devices and a plan to allow municipalities and counties to issue revenue bonds without a public vote.

The House sent a Senate-passed measure to the governor expanding the Medicaid program to include coverage of eyeglasses, dentures, hearing aids and wheelchairs. That proposal, expected to cost the state an estimated $7.5 million in state and federal funds, will go into effect next January.

The increased circuit-breaker benefits are expected to permit more elderly to beneift, at a cost of an additional $3.6 million a year. Last year the program cost about $7 million and benefited about 55,000.

To be eligible for the circuit breaker, a person must be 65 and have an income of no more than $7,500, although the bill leaves the benefit unchanged for persons with incomes over $6,200.

"This is designed to counter higher housing costs and increased property taxes and rents," said Rep. Steve Gardner, D-Ballwin, who handled the bill in the House.

Under the revenue bonding revision, municipalities or counties would be able to set up development corporations that could then issue revenue bonds without the constitutional requirement for a public vote.

The bill is seen as a means of circumventing the vote requirement. Efforts to amend the constitution to eliminate that requirement failed last summer but an identical measure will be put to voters again next year.

Last escapee captured; Ray quiet about break

BRUSHY MOUNTAIN,Tenn. (AP) — The last of the inmates who fled maximum security Brushy Mountain State Prison with convicted assassin James Earl Ray was recaptured today, authorities announced.

A Tennessee corrections department spokesman said no details were immediately available on how Douglas Shelton, 32, was apprehended. But guards had been concentrating their search for him in the area where Ray and Ray's cellmate, Earl Hill were seized late Sunday and early Monday.

Shelton worked on the prison's plumbing gang and is believed responsible for the makeshift pipe ladder used by the seven inmates to crawl over the wall. His capture keeps intact Brushy Mountain's record for allowing no succesful escape.

Ray, meanwhile, was back in custody but not talking. Authorities said he, Shelton and Hill apparently spent weeks planning last Friday's break.

"As far as the escape, we feel at this time that we are looking at Doug Shelton, James Earl Ray and Earl Hill, initially," said Warden Stonney Lane. "We know it's well planned because of the ladder."

Ray, confessed slayer of civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr., and his former cellmate Hill are sharing a cell again in the prison's maximum security "D block" because of temporary overcrowding, officials said.

They were tracked down by bloodhounds and captured within hours of each other late Sunday and early Monday in the New River section of Anderson County, a snake-infested wooded area about five miles from here.

Gov. Ray Blanton said Monday he was asking President Carter to take custody of Ray.

Group drafts plans to improve attitudes

The recently-formed "Sedalia Volunteers for Progress," made up of downtown merchants, owners and members of the Planning and Zoning Commission, has come up with some ideas designed to generate more enthusiasm for the downtown area.

Since it was organized last week, the group has "changed our concept," Ed Yuille, chairman, said. "We want to be more open and have more open-ended meetings. We want more members and everyone who volunteers will be assigned a committee." Originally the group was limited to seven members.

The group has adopted a "good neighbor" plan that calls for courteous greetings, more interest in customers and their needs; taking a more active role in Sedalia's affairs, cleaning up the downtown area and visiting other downtown businesses. Those attending the meeting also selected one block each as "target areas" to gain opinions.

The idea here is to meet with four owners or merchants from a block at breakfast or lunch to gauge "the attitudes, needs and suggestions of other downtown merchants," Yuille said.

Since the group has no funds at present, the good neighbor plan was deemed the most realistic approach to improving shoppers' attitudes about the downtown area.

Besides these two areas, the group also would like to see signs put on three stoplights near the downtown area to direct traffic to the central business district, the courthouse, Municipal Building and post office. All three of the proposals will be discussed in letters to be sent to various downtown merchants, it was reported.

Jobless benefit payments are down

A total of $288,926 in unemployment insurance payments were made to Pettis Countians during May, 1977, which is $64,317 less than the $353,243 in benefits paid out in April, it was announced Tuesday.

The statewide total of unemployment insurance benefits was also down in May, dropping more than 20 per cent to $15,144,875, which is the lowest statewide total since November, 1976.

The most recent Pettis County unemployment figure stands at 5.3 per cent, indicating that 858 of the county's work force of 16,266 persons were unemployed in April. This figure is five-tenths above the statewide average of 4.8.

On a statewide basis, Pettis County's 5.3 unemployment percentage figure "is pretty well in the middle," according to Murl Nash, director of public information for the Missouri Division of Employment Security.

Oklahoma authorities press through the night for clues

LOCUST GROVE, Okla. (AP) — Harsh flood lights powered by thumping portable generators lit a 610-acre campground as officers searched through the night for clues in the murder of three young Girl Scouts.

"We've got a maniac somewhere around," said Waynes County Sheriff Glen "Pete" Weaver Monday. "This thing is horrible, it's the work of a demented person."

The night before, in contrast, was dark and silent as 100 Scouts began a week-long outing at Camp Scott, an isolated retreat about 45 miles east of Tulsa.

According to camp director Barbara Day, no one reported hearing anything unusual between 2 a.m. and 4 a.m., the time authorities believe a lone assailant beat and strangled the girls, then dragged their nude bodies in blood-soaked sleeping bags to the intersection of two dirt roads 150 yards away.

But a newspaper reporter said he overheard scouts telling others Monday that they had heard screams at about 3 a.m.

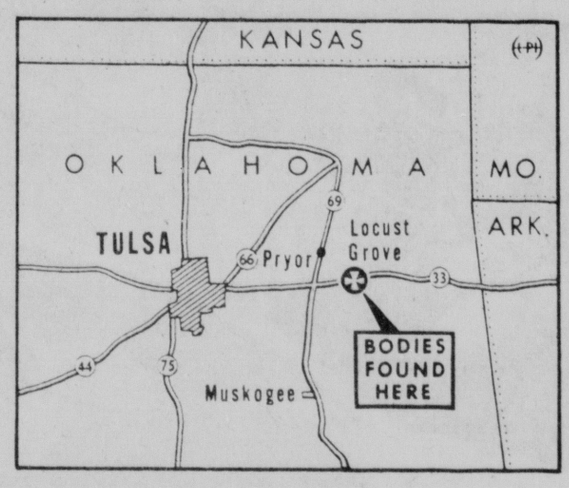

A camp worker said in response to the report that girls "often hear things and scream and giggle" during the first night of an outing.

Michelle Guse, 9, and Lori Lee Farmer, who would have celebrated her 9th birthday on Saturday, were apparently killed by blows to the head, authorities said. Doris Denise Milner, 10, was apparently strangled by a length of cord, her cries probably muffled by a towel found alongside her body. Her hands were bound behind her back with adhesive tape, one investigator said.

"Apparently, from viewing the scene and the bodies, the little girls were beaten to death," said Ted Lempke, a state investigator. "There is also some evidence of sexual molestation of at least one of the girls."

Autopsies were scheduled to determine the exact cause of death of the trio, who had been sleeping in a 12-by-14-foot tent pitched in a wooded area after arriving at the camp on Sunday.

Police said the tent was 150 yards from one in which four camp counselors slept.

NAACP hires attorney to check case

The Sedalia chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) has hired attorney Craig Cassing to further investigate recent findings by Albert Harwell, chairman of the Sedalia Human Rights Commission.

Oscar Lawson, chairman of the local chapter's legal redress committee, said the action was taken "because we want an attorney to check out the legality of what happened to Mr. English."

Columbus English, 320 East Johnson, unsuccessfully applied in March for a federally-funded Public Service Employment (PSE) position with the city. After he was rejected for the job, but never officially informed of the decision, English filed a complaint with the Human Rights Commission. In the course of investigating English's complaint, Harwell discovered that of the 10 PSE positions created locally since the start of the year, only one was filled with a woman and one filled by a member of a minority race.

Harwell concluded his investigation of the situation by recommending that all applicants for city positions be notified in writing within one week after the vacancy is filled that they have not been hired. They should also be given a specific reason why they were not selected, Harwell advised. He also urged "a more positive effort be made to adhere to the (city) affirmitive action plan with respect to hiring personnel of minority groups."

The city's affirmitive action plan was criticized last week by an investigating team from the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Lawson said he has instructed Cassing to check into the details of the English incident to determine if discrimination took place. Cassing was not available for comment Tuesday.

investigation by Cade's office "has been conducted in an unprofessional and biased manner without respect for the rights of all parties involved, including the Housing Authority and its director."

Mr. Albright also said in the letter, "As the director of the Housing Authority, I have earnestly sought to implement policies that would be fair to all persons regardless of race, creed or color. I can honestly say that the Housing Authority board operates under this same philosophy."

He told The Democrat-Capital he wrote the letter "because the investigation was totally unfair and something needed to be done."

He also said Friday's charges "will be answered in due time."

the past has caught up with us and now we have to pay the price. That's the American citizen through and through," said Hendricks.

Supporting her concern about industrial emissions, Mrs. Berenyi cited a report from the state monitoring station for air particulants (located at the Central Fire Station). Particulants are formed when gases combine in the atmosphere and can cause dense haze.

The last reading, in December, listed the microgram per cubic meter of air in Sedalia to be 56.9. The secondary EPA standard says 60 is the point at which plant life and lower animal life begins to suffer.

In other commission business, it was reported that Alcolac Inc., has offered the EQC the services of a former deputy director of the EPA who is associated with WAPORA Inc., a consulting firm on pollution. WAPORA is a subsidiary of Alcolac.

"He would do a study of the existing industries in Sedalia and determine what industries would be compatible to them" said Charles Ledgerwood, a member of the EQC. "We could use it as a guideline for future industries."

The commission will also confer with Ron Scott, city planning and management director, and Roscoe Righter, Parks and Recreation director, on the purchasing and planting of 400 trees to replace those destroyed by the May 4 tornado. The EQC will submit a budget appropriations recommendation to the city council at its next meeting to cover this expense.

The EQC is currently investigating a list, provided by Hamm, of the various kinds of industries in order to determine their potential environmental impact on the community. This report will be concluded Wednesday, according to Mrs. Berenyi.

State assumes more of cost of assessment

State Rep. James Mathewson informed the Pettis County Court about 10 a.m. Tuesday that the Missouri House has forwarded a bill to Gov. Joseph Teasdale which will increase financial reimbursements for all counties for property assessment costs.

In abandoning its second attempt this session to require statewide property reassessment, recently completed in Pettis County, the House forwarded the Senate-passed measure, which will more than double the reimbursement to Pettis County. The House had attempted to attach a statewide reassessment bill to the Senate measure, but discarded that effort Tuesday.

The Senate bill increases the state's share of local assessment costs. Counties will now receive reimbursement for half of the previous year's assessment costs, a change from the reimbursement figures used since 1969, according to County Court officials.

Pettis County currently receives $739.35 per month or $8,872.20 per year from the state as its share of assessment costs for the county.

The bill given final passage Tuesday increases the state's cost to 50 per cent, the County Court reported, meaning that the county will receive about $11,000 in additional reimbursement from the state this year. The County Assessor's budget for this year is $38,970, according to county budget figures.

The bill reportedly contains an escalator clause, which in effect means that counties each year will receive reimbursement for 50 per cent of the previous year's assessment costs.

Insurance firm is sued by Sedalia couple

A Sedalia couple filed a damage suit totaling over $56,000 in Circuit Court Tuesday morning against Miller's Mutual Insurance Association of Illinois for the firm's alleged refusal to pay them for a home destroyed by fire Feb. 5.

Fred G. and Joyce A. Fox, formerly of 1106 East Seventh, filed the suit because of Miller's alleged refusal to pay the couple a total of $51,000 on their homeowner's insurance policy. Their suit maintained they took out a three-year policy for $30,000 insurance on the home with Miller's on Jan. 14, less than a month before the home burned. That policy, the suit maintains, also allowed the couple $15,000 coverage for their personal property and an additional $6,000 for living expenses.

In addition to that $51,000, the couple is seeking an additional 10 per cent or $5,100 for "vexatious delay," attorney's fees and court costs involved in the suit.

The State Fire Marshal's office investigated the fire and determined the blaze was incendiary in nature, meaning that it was set but that arson may or may not have been involved. Sedalia firemen set damage estimates of $10,000 on the home, which was destroyed, and $5,000 on its contents. Investigators reported they found three points of origin for the fire in the home.

Check forgery charged is filed

James Hayes, 31, 415 East 25th, was arraigned in Magistrate Court Tuesday morning on felony check forgery charges.

Hayes is charged with forging a check for $170.55 on May 31 to Midstate Oil Co., Inc. of Sedalia. Hayes allegedly forged the signature of Lenny Carver on the check.

A preliminary hearing for Hayes is scheduled for June 28. He remains in the county jail in lieu of $2,500 bond.

Soviets holding U.S. journalist

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government today banned correspondent Robert C. Toth of the Los Angeles Times from leaving the country, saying he is being investigated for "the collection of secret information," the U.S. Embassy reported.

The Soviet Foreign Ministry handed an embassy official a note charging that Toth "has been engaged in activities incompatible with the status of a foreign journalist accredited to the U.S.S.R., that is, with the collection of secret information of a political and military character. ...

"Toth will be summoned for interrogation by the investigative organs in connection with which his departure from Moscow until the end of the investigation is not desired," the note said.

Toth said he received a telephone call summoning him to an interrogation office at Lefortovo Prison later today.

The correspondent, who planned to leave Moscow on Friday at the end of a three-year assignment to the Soviet Union, was interrogated for three hours last Saturday after meeting with a Soviet scientist to get material for a story.

RULES FOR PLAYING GAMERAMA SERIES #52

1. Get a FREE Gamerama Master Card on request at the end of the checkout or at store office. Get one FREE Game Ticket every time you visit a participating IGA store. All game materials may also be obtained by mailing request to Gamerama MO, P.O. Box 26, Hazelwood, Missouri 63042 - one request per envelope. To reimburse you for postage on a mail request, a 13¢ stamp will be sent with the game materials. You may also request game materials by calling 800 521 8253 between 8:30 A.M. to 4:00 P.M. EDT. Only one telephone or mail request may be made per day for game materials to be mailed to one person or to one address. No purchase is required. Adults (18 years or older) only eligible to play.

2. On each Game Ticket there are four Gamerama Markers. To reveal the Markers, punch out the perforated portions of the Game Ticket, then separate the punched out portions and you will have four Markers. Each Marker corresponds to a square in one of the Games on your Master Game Card.

3. When you have revealed the Gamerama Markers, carefully place them in their appropriate square on your Master Game Card. EXAMPLE: If one of your Game Markers is a C-167 in the $1.00 Game, insert that Marker in the square numbered C-167 in the $1.00 Game. When you complete any row in a game, you may have a winner. In some games, you will find squares marked FREE and it is unnecessary to collect a Marker to be placed in such FREE squares. FREE squares are not transferable. Only one winner per card.

When you complete any row in a game, you may take the Game Card and the Markers to any participating store and in the presence of authorized store personnel, initial the backs of the Gamerama Markers in the completed row. If the prize category is $1, $2 or $5, store personnel will be able to verify that you have won and give you the prize immediately. If the prize category is $20, $100 or $1,000, store personnel will send your initialed Gamerama Markers and the Game Card, together with a Prize Submission Agreement, for verification. Upon verification, you will be awarded your prize; allow 10 to 14 days for verification.

The quickest way of submitting a claim for a prize is to take it to a participating store. But you may submit it by mail by following these instructions:

Put your initials on the back of each Gamerama Marker in the completed row and sign the Game Card. Mail the Markers, the Game Card and the signed Prize Submission Agreement form, which you can get at the store or by mail, to Gamerama MO, Main LaFrentz & Company (CPA's), P.O. Box 8941, Jefferson Memorial Station, St. Louis, Missouri 63102.

Your submission by mail will be rejected, unless you have initialed each Marker on the back and signed the Game Card and mailed them with the signed Prize Submission Agreement to Gamerama MO, Main LaFrentz & Company, P.O. Box 8941, Jefferson Memorial Station, St. Louis, Missouri 63102. Allow 4 to 6 weeks for verification on mail submissions. Be sure to include your name, address, telephone number and Social Security number.

Game materials cannot be returned.

4. When you have a winning card which has been verified by authorized personnel, you will, after furnishing your name and address, be awarded your prize. A Federal Trade Commission rule requires that the names and addresses of all winners be posted in all participating stores. When turning in your winning card at a participating store, all your Gamerama Markers which are not part of the winning row may be removed and transferred to the new card. Only one prize will be awarded per game on any one Master Game Card. Tax liability on prizes is the responsibility of the prize winners.

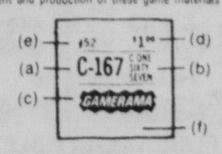

5. All game materials will be rejected and judged void if not obtained from and verified by authorized personnel or if any part of any of the game pieces is illegible, altered, mutilated, defaced, tampered with, forged, contains printing or other errors, or is irregular in any way. Game materials void where taxed or prohibited by law.

6. Game will end upon distribution of all Game Tickets. All prizes must be claimed within five (5) days after announcement of termination or they are forfeited. Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, at such times as the verified claims for prizes in any category equals the number of prizes advertised for that category, the game for that prize category shall immediately and automatically terminate without notice and any unverified claims in process at or received after that time shall be automatically rejected.

7. Game materials valid only for this game. All Game Tickets, Gamerama Markers and Game Cards must have the same series number. EXAMPLE: If you have Master Game Card Series No. 52, all of your game pieces must have Series No. 52.

8. Employees (and their I.R.S. listed dependents) of the IGA Stores, Wetterau, Inc., Dansico Associates, Main LaFrentz & Company, their advertising agency and any other companies engaged in the development and production of these game materials are not eligible to win.

Why Carter supports Andrew Young

WASHINGTON—U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young keeps insisting that no matter what he says publicly, President Carter never mentions it to him. This is hard to believe. Since we have nothing but conjecture to go on, as to what takes place in the Oval Office, we'll have to base this conversation on conjecture.

Buchwald

"Well, Andy, how's it going?"

"Very fine, Mr. President. I'm really enjoying my work. I didn't realize foreign affairs could be this much fun."

"Tell me about it."

"Oh?"

"You can't believe how many racists there are in this world. Do you know they have as many racists in Sweden as they do in Queens, N.Y.?"

"That many?"

"Maybe more. Of course, I haven't been to Sweden, and I don't spend too much time in Queens, except to go to the airport—but they're there."

"What seems to be our problem with Sweden, Andy?"

"Nothing, Mr. President. Things are fine with Sweden. At least they were until I called them racists. Now they're all upset."

"I don't see why."

"Of course, they're not as upset as the people in Queens. I didn't mean it the way they took it in Queens."

"How did you mean it?"

"Well, I was trying to make a point about Sweden and I had to compare it to something. My U.N. office overlooks Queens, so I just said Queens. I could have easily mentioned Brooklyn, the Bronx, Manhattan or Staten Island. They're racist, too."

"Is there anything I can do to cool things down in Sweden or Queens?"

"We could probably make it up to Sweden, but I wouldn't give New York another dime."

"Didn't I read somewhere that you called England racist also?"

"Yessir. They are, too. But they took that statement out of context. What I really meant to say was that all of Europe was racist. It's not their fault—that's just the way they are. I think it's America's job to point it out to them."

"Andy, do you believe it's advisable to go around the world and tell everyone they're racists? I know it's important, but it seems to me, and I'm new on the job, that the role of our U.N. ambassador is to make friends—or at least not lose the ones we've already got."

"Lincoln was a racist."

"I didn't know that."

"So were Kennedy, Nixon and Ford."

"But what has that got to do with foreign affairs, Andy?"

"It has a lot to do with Africa."

"But the Africans are mad at you also, Andy."

"Only the racist ones. The black countries have inverse racism there, and when I told them that they didn't like it. That's why I said Cuba was a moderating influence in Angola."

You haven't said anything about Japan, China or Korea yet."

"I was planning to take a trip there."

"Do you have to?"

"Mr. President, anytime you think I'm not doing my job I'll be very happy to resign."

"I wouldn't want you to do that, Andy. I really wouldn't."

"Why not, sir?"

"If I accepted your resignation, everyone would say I was a racist."

Conservative view

Free ride by barges a scandal

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — Victor Hugo is authority for the political truism that no army can overcome an idea whose time has come. Under that guiding principle, the Senate should vote overwhelmingly this month for the imposition of user charges on the nation's barge operators. After 200 years, that sound idea is long overdue.

Kilpatrick

You can search all day and all night, through the whole range of federal activities, and find nothing that even remotely compares with the lush bonanza the taxpayers have provided the barge men. It is incredible. One looks at the figures in disbelief.

At a cost of some $4 billion, the taxpayers have provided 25,000 miles of inland canals, locks, dams and waterways. Another $4 billion have been spent on maintenance and operation of the system. And toward this monstrous cost, the barge operators have contributed not one red cent in direct user payments.

Today the barge industry collects annual revenues in the neighborhood of $1 billion. The taxpayers provide subsidies estimated at $400 million a year to keep the system going — 40 per cent of total revenues. This contrasts with subsidies of 1 per cent for truckers and air carriers, and 3 per cent for railway freight. The barge companies are resisting the payment of even one thin dime toward the $400 million burden on the general public.

What unconscionable arrogance is this! The opponents' arguments boil down to four contentions: No user charges ever have been imposed; therefore they ought not to be imposed now. User charges would raise the cost of barge-transported goods to consumers. User charges would divert some barge traffic to competing trucks and railways, thereby causing unemployment among the poor little barge operators. Finally, the question is so complex that it ought to be studied for another 18 months, at the very least, before congressional action is taken.

Humbug! There might have been some feeble justification, a century ago, for providing a "free" competitive service as a check against the railroad barons. That justification, if it ever existed, has no meaning today.

Yes, user charges presumably would be passed on to consumers, but the costs are fair and their burden would be infinitesimal. On barge-transported coal, for example, we are talking about 11 cents a ton. There is no reason under sun or moon why coal consumers should not pay this charge.

As for the poor, pathetic little barge operators: A handful of giant corporations control much of the waterway traffic. Let us shed a tear for the poor little Texas Gas Transmission Company and the Eastern Gas & Fuel Associates. Their corporate revenues annually run to $1.5 billion, over $200 million of which is in barge revenues. Together they own 3,000 barges and carry about half the coal traffic on the inland waterways. Or let us weep for U.S. Steel, Ashland Oil, Central Soya, and Dravo Corporation. Their collective sales exceed $16 billion a year. How do their spokesmen keep a straight face in opposing fair user charges for the facilities the taxpayers now provide them for nothing?

The question of user charges has been studied, and studied, and studied, ad nauseam and ad infinitum. Every president since Roosevelt has recommended a system of user charges. Thousands of pages of congressional testimony have been accumulated. Under the cynical orthography of politics, the word study is spelled s-t-a-l-l. That is all this amounts to.

The Senate Committee on Environment and Public Works has recommended a schedule of user charges that would be phased in over a 10-year period. Not until fiscal 1980 would the barge operators be assessed anything at all. Beginning in 1989, user charges would amount to 100 per cent of the costs of maintenance and operation, and to 50 per cent of the annual construction costs.

Conservation picks awaited in state

Two very important appointments by Gov. Joseph Teasdale will be coming up soon as vacancies occur on the Missouri Conservation Commission. The governor's nominees are due by July 1.

Moving off the commission upon the expiration of their six-year terms will be Jim Tom Blair and Robert Delaney, both Democrats. The commission numbers only four members, so Teasdale will be replacing half of it.

The governor's appointments will be especially vital considering that the Missouri Department of Conservation is on the threshold of a new era. When voters approved the Design for Conservation special tax levy last fall, they gave the go-ahead for a greatly expanded conservation effort in Missouri, one going far beyond that designed primarily to serve hunters and fishermen.

Moving Design off the drawing board and into practice will pose new challenges to the bi-partisan Conservation Commission. This will be the place where effective leadership will have to be demonstrated to ensure that Missouri adopts the kind of conservation program the people want.

There have been some disquieting rumors that the governor may approach these key appointments more in the spirit of a political payoff than what is best for Missouri. This would be unfortunate indeed.

There has already been some maneuvering in Jefferson City to undermine the purposes for which the special sales tax was passed and divert these funds to other uses. Then there are always those who are jealous of the Conservation Department's independence and would like to compromise this in some fashion.

It is essential, therefore, that the Conservation Commission be composed of members who, besides being dedicated conservationists themselves, are immune to the kinds of petty politics that too often holds sway in Jefferson City.

We hope Gov. Teasdale, an avid outdoorsman himself, maintains the Conservation Commission at the same level of independence and integrity that has made Missouri the envy of other states in this regard.

"Now I am the greatest."

Yugoslavian Reds control U.S. church

By JACK ANDERSON and LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — The Communist-controlled Serbian Orthodox Church, which has become a front for Yugoslavia's notorious secret police, is about to take over the spiritual guidance of 250,000 American parishioners.

A Supreme Court ruling last year will also turn over to the Communist-backed church $5 million worth of religious property in the United States. The court settled a dispute between the mother church in Yugoslavia and an anti-Communist faction in the United States, with a decision in favor of the mother church.

We have now obtained documents and testimony showing that Yugoslavia's UDB, the feared secret police, installed its choice as head of the church in 1958. Authoritative U.S. intelligence sources have told us that priests are cleared and briefed by Communist officials before they are sent to America. Some may be little better, said our sources, than spies in frocks.

The UDB has also blackmailed and harassed U.S. citizens of Serbian descent. Similar charges have led to a Senate investigation of Chile's DINA, Iran's SAVAK, Russia's KGB and South Korea's KCIA.

The chilling story of the Communist takeover of the Serbian Orthodox Church in Belgrade is told in secret FBI memos and intelligence reports. These documents also describe an ugly campaign to discredit the anti-Communist leader of the church in the United States, with contrived evidence about his alleged love life.

According to the testimony, the UDB sought to subvert the church in 1958 by installing Bishop German, a charming but cunning prelate, as the new patriarch. The secret police needed the vote of Father Makarije, head of Yugoslavia's famed Dechani monastery, to make it look legitimate.

Broken by mistreatment, the jailed Makarije obediently dressed in his formal cassock and donned tbe vestments. Then he was hustled from prison to participate in the voting. He followed the UDB's orders and voted for its candidate, Bishop German.

Four years after the patriarch had consolidated his hold on the church in Yugoslavia, the secret police turned their attention to the United States and began a backstage effort to oust the presiding authority, Bishop Dionisije.

The FBI learned about the plot from a confidential source, whom we have now identified as an important UDB official. Reported a secret FBI memo: "Efforts have been undertaken by representatives of the Uprava Drzavne Bezbednosti (UDB) in Belgrade to discredit Bishop Dionisije, head of the Serbian Orthodox Church in the U.S."

The Yugoslav embassy was put on notice that "efforts to discredit Dionisije will be undertaken during the immediate future as the Church Council is scheduled to meet during May, 1963." The embassy was cautioned to treat the plot "in a very top secret fashion."

The defamation campaign succeeded in souring many loyal Americans against the anti-Communist bishop who, apparently, was vulnerable to some minor charges. In the end, the Belgrade church defrocked Dionisije and began sending over priests approved by the UDB to serve in U.S. parishes. The Supreme Court resolved the ensuing court battle in favor of the Communist-backed church.

Waterloo data needed

I would like to comment on the upcoming $7 million industrial revenue bond issue for Waterloo Industries as carried in your June 7 edition.

In view of Sedalia's past experiences with industrial bond issues, I think we are entitled to some background on Waterloo Industries. I would like to see the following questions answered and made public:

1 — Who are the major customers (of Waterloo) and what per cent of their sales are made to these customers?

2 — How were the other plants this company operates financed? Were they financed with industrial revenue bonds?

3 — What is this company's net worth?

Hairdresser predicts beauty salon changes

The beauty salon as we have known it may be on the way out. More emphasis will be put on giving a woman what she wants, at a price she can afford and within the time at her disposal.

That prediction comes from Jean-Louis David of Paris. American salons are already in such an atmosphere of change, the well known hairdresser points out.

"There will be new possibilities in a beauty salon, expensive and inexpensive," as he sees it. "Like dress designers who offer both couture clothes and ready-to-wear; a new kind of beauty salon will offer to pamper at a price, or a woman can merely have a hairdo without the extra services — manicure, pedicure, whatever."

The quick service is already operating at Henri Bendel, a fashionable New York retail store, where Jean-Louis has opened his first American salon. Two of his top stylists will hold the fort there when he travels.

"It does not mean that only particular women will gravitate to those services," he explained. "A woman may want the ambience of deluxe service occasionally, stretching her budget to get it, and a woman who can afford lots of pampering may want to avail herself of quick service from time to time."

New look

For the bulky, long-hair look, Jean-Louis David of Paris cuts hair in oval shape, sloping down to nape of neck, and curls by braiding hair with pins. The roots and ends are left free and hair is dried naturally or with a minimum of heat, to achieve a spectacular look on a youthful face. (AP)

In a way, the alternate beauty salon idea is designed to appeal to many women who might have done their hair at home to avoid fuss and expense.

But other things have changed. In fact, Jean-Louis has introduced some spectacular hairdos that take on new form. "Geometrics are out," he said. "It's a new kind of long hair — sexy, anti-coiffeur, natural."

He illustrated it on his wife, Danielle. After cutting the long hair in an oval shape, "blending it downward," he began setting it with pins. It can be "with or without a perm."

"First, there is a way to get the hair to the right kind of bulk," he says, using hairpins, braiding strands of hair over each prong and then bending the pin to hold it in place. Hair at roots and ends is kept free.

"Next we blow with a drier to warm the curls," he said. Combing it out, he explained, "You see it does not look Hollywood '30s. It is modern and different."

The hair frames the face in tremendous bulk and has a kind of indefinite look about it. It is a stunning look for a youthful face.

"It is not for every woman, one reason hairdressers must have rapport with clients. Each haircut should bring out the natural flow of hair. The hair is dried naturally or with lamps."

He has so much faith in his system that he has put it on videotape "so the cassettes can instruct hairdressers around the world.

"It is being done on a pyramid system — we do a technique, a movie, and we train a salon manager who trains hairdressers in the variety of hairdos from the tape. In Paris we are doing 1,200 clients a day in four salons, all different, but all modern and free.

"Young girls like the feeling of the streets. Fashion comes from the street, not from the designer. I am an artist, but not as before. The new feeling of hairdressers must be 'I'm not working for me, I'm working for the client.' I am not doing what I like to do. In fact, some things I do, I don't like, but it is important to be in fashion."

A third generation of a family of hairdressers, Jean-Louis David has worked with Carita and Alexandre of Paris, two greats in the world of hairdressing. But at 26 he had his own salon.

Ridding wood of white spots

By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY — When opening a can be sure to put the lid into the can when it is emptied. You'll save many a cut finger or hand. — WILMA.

DEAR POLLY — I have a better remedy for the reader who has gum on her slacks. Use peanut butter such as one buys at the market (not the natural kind) and rub a small amount on the gum and let it stand for a couple of days and then wash it as usual. Believe me, with two kids who love gum I use this remedy a lot. — GERRY.

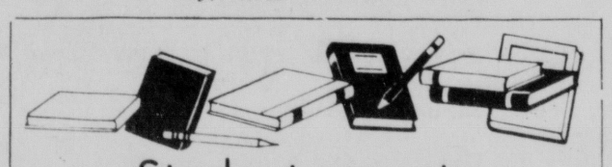

DEAR READERS — Several readers wrote the same suggestion and most of them just rubbed in the peanut-butter and then washed as usual. — POLLY.

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY — I used a cotton crocheted mat on my 38-year-old waxed mahogany dining table. When I put a paper plate with warm, not hot, food on it I was left with a white spot. I have tried using wax and the mixture of cigarette ashes and butter but the spot remains. Any suggestions for removing this spot will be greatly appreciated. — M.A.

DEAR M.A. — If your table is highly waxed there is a chance that removing the wax might remove the spot. It may not have penetrated through a heavy wax coating. I have removed such spots by rubbing on petroleum jelly and leaving it for about 24 hours and then rubbing it off. Or, you might dampen a cloth with spirits of camphor, daub this on the spot, let dry and then polish or wax as usual. The last is only if the table has a varnished or shellac finish. — POLLY.

Polly will send you one of her signed thank-you newspaper coupon clippers if she uses your favorite Pointer, Peeve or Problem in her column. Write POLLY'S POINTERS in care of this newspaper. (NEA)

Think of this if you're thinking business opportunities:

At International Harvester, "the good life" comes with the dealership.

An IH agricultural dealer can have the best of both worlds. First, a life style less frantic than big city living, more involved with the community, more satisfying in that he makes a vital contribution to the economy of his area.

Then there's the other half of the good life — the stability and growth potential in serving an industry responsible for one sixth or more of the value of world agricultural exports. No wonder Harvester provides its dealers with everything they need to excel: management training, special business systems, and expert local advisers.

It's a good life for men who can meet International Harvester XL dealership agricultural standards.

There is presently an International Harvester franchise available in the Sedalia Area of West Central Missouri. This location offers excellent sales and profit potential for qualified individuals.

Down Yanks 8-3

Royals fired up for game in N.Y.

NEW YORK (AP) — In the final game of the 1976 American League playoffs, Yankee Stadium turned out to be Heartbreak Hotel for the Kansas City Royals.

The Royals paid their first 1977 visit to New York Monday night and, naturally enough, there were a few thoughts of what might have been if their 8-3 triumph over the Yankees had come on their last trip here.

"After the game, that entered my mind for a split second," admitted George Brett, who unloaded a key two-run homer that gave the Royals a 5-1 lead in the fifth inning. "It was exciting to come back here. I can remember almost every pitch of that last game, but you can't live in the past."

The pitch Brett would like to forget, of course, was the one Chris Chambliss walloped for a ninth-inning homer that gave the Yankees a 7-6 victory and the AL pennant.

"The fans were very nice to us compared to last year," Brett said, recalling the unruly demonstration Chambliss' homer touched off. Or maybe the fans just didn't want to stir up the Royals, who are off to a mediocre start in defense of their West Division crown.

Manager Whitey Herzog, though, had other ideas.

"We had a little meeting before the game and maybe it paid off," Brett said. "Whitey told us what he thought of us, and it wasn't very good. But it might have opened some people's eyes. This was one of the best games we've played all year. We made a lot of good plays and did some timely hitting.

"I think we may have been fired up against the Yankees. This could be what we needed. We have enough confidence in ourselves that if we go out and play like we can, we'll win it."

Brett shared the spotlight with Darrell Porter, who drove in three runs with a double and single; Pete LaCock, who started two rallies with a double and single, and reliever Steve Mingori, who choked off a sixth-inning New York threat and blanked the Yankees over the final four innings.

Mingori followed winner Paul Splittorff and Doug Bird to the mound in the sixth after a walk and two singles trimmed the Royals' lead to 6-3 with none out. Before delivering a pitch, he picked Thurman Munson off first base, then retired Chambliss on a long fly and Roy White on a soft popup.

"I put the pickoff on," said Mingori, who has not allowed an earned run in his last 10 appearances covering 21 2-3 innings. "John Mayberry plays behind the runner and he breaks for the bag when I raise my leg. A lot of times you catch a guy sleeping."

Mingori also reminded his teammates of their unhappy 1976 windup.

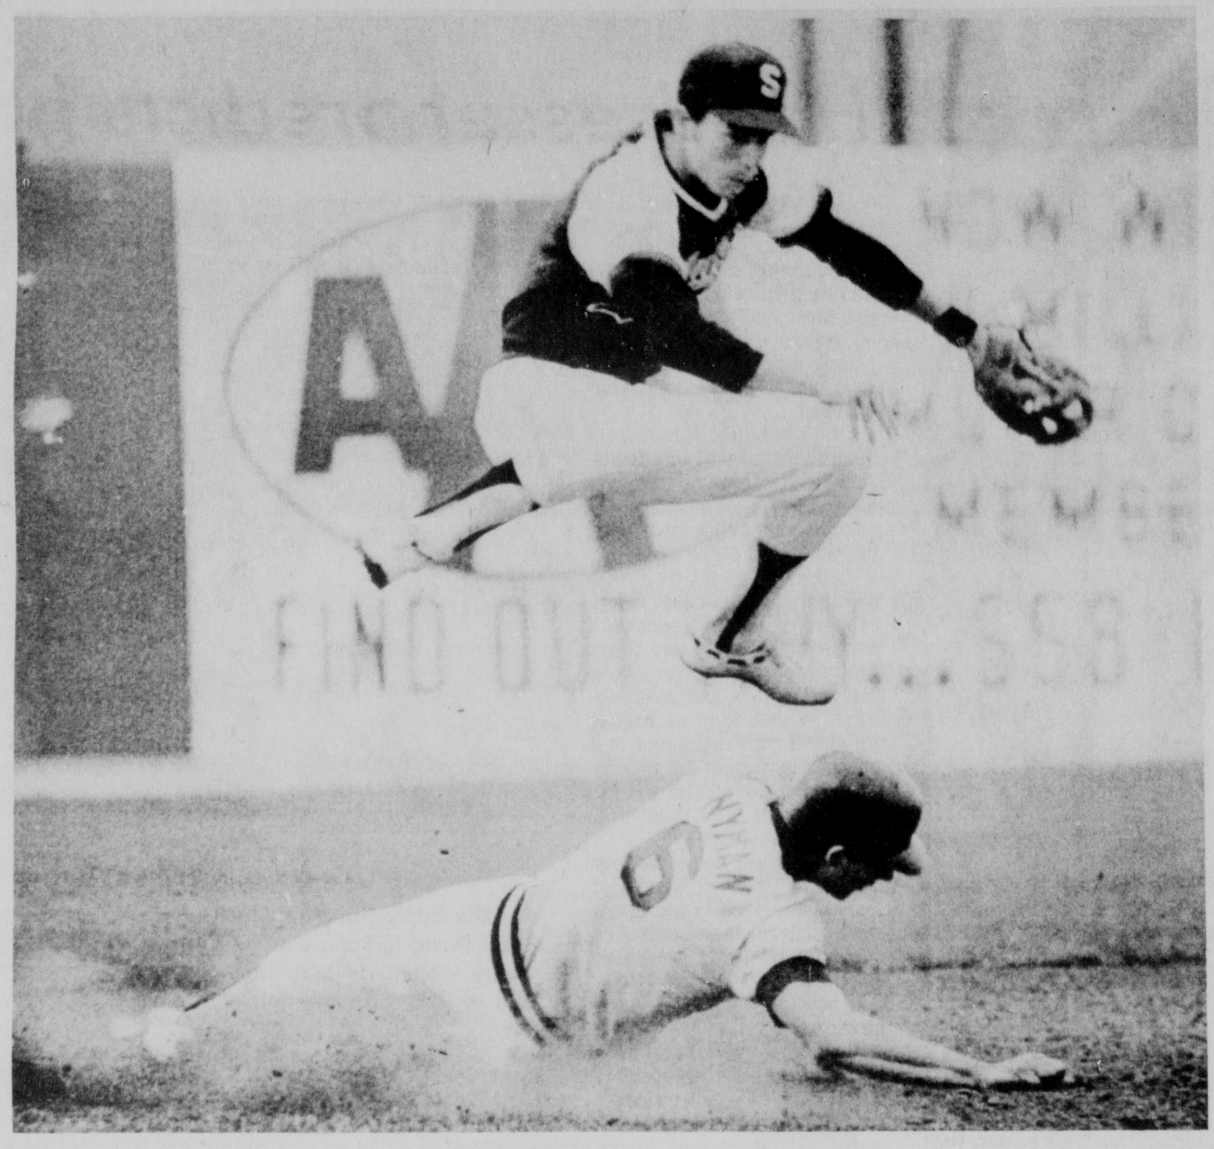

"I asked the guys before the game that if we win does it mean we go to the World Series?" quipped the veteran left-hander. "I got a lot of funny smiles. But coming back here was a good reminder of how close we came last year.

"We've been playing like all we had to do was go out on the field and we'd win. I think we're starting to wake up now and I hope we can get something going."

Shortstop Fred Patek described Herzog's pregame meeting as "the truth, but not a chewing-out. It was something that needed to be said. We just haven't been doing the basic fundamentals—not taking extra bases, not moving runners up, all kinds of things.

"Basically he told us not to be so selfish and to start doing things for the club. It was more or less an awakening I'd say.

"I still remember the good feeling I had when we went home last year even though we lost, the good feeling of accomplishment. But if we don't start playing like we're capable, we won't be here or any place else this October."

Moving to Alabama-Birmingham

Bartow quits UCLA job

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Gene Bartow, disenchanted by the pressures of coaching basketball at UCLA, has taken on a new kind of challenge as athletic director and head coach of the first basketball program at the University of Alabama-Birmingham.

Bartow's resignation from UCLA was announced in Los Angeles Monday night by Athletic Director J.D. Morgan and his hiring by Alabama-Birmingham was to be announced at a press conference early today.

"Gene will serve as athletic director and head coach of the UAB basketball team we hope to field during the 1978-79 seasons," said school President Dr. S. Richardson Hill.

"He is one of the great coaches and leaders of young people in the country today, and we have confidence he will continue his outstanding leadership at UAB," Hill added.

"The thing about the Alabama job that appeals to him is that he is the athletic director," said Morgan in announcing Bartow's resignation. "He will be laying the foundation for the entire athletic program. It's a different challenge and a different set of circumstances for him."

Apparently the challenge of building a sports program from its foundation, combined with bickering among some UCLA supporters, motivated Bartow to abandon the most successful basketball program in the country.

Bartow succeeded John Wooden as coach of the Bruins two seasons ago. His teams won Pacific-8 Conference championships both seasons, advancing to the 1976 NCAA semifinals. But they failed to capture the national title and that led to heavy criticism of Bartow. Under Wooden, UCLA won 10 national titles in 12 years.

Bartow's apparent successor will be Gary Cunningham, former assistant to Wooden.

Cunningham, who served as assistant to Wooden when he was head coach and now is executive director of the UCLA alumni association, said Monday he was only mildly surprised by Bartow's departure.

"I felt it would be about 50-50, I know how frustrated he was. The pressure affected Gene," said Cunningham, who was in Meridian, Idaho for a high school basketball clinic.

Bartow has been coach at five universities, with a 310-153 record in 16 seasons. In the past 12 seasons, Bartow's teams have participated in post-season tournaments eight times.

Prior to joining UCLA, the coach took three of his Valparaiso teams to the NCAA College Division tournament. In 1973, his Memphis State team went to the NCAA championship game before losing to UCLA.

Boston wins 5-4 on Fisk's single

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

Carlton Fisk knows when the odds are in his favor.

"There was a good chance for a hit," the Boston catcher said after his long single in the bottom of the 10th inning scored Rick Burleson from third and gave the Red Sox a 5-4 victory over the Chicago White Sox Monday night.

The victory moved Boston into first place in the American League East Division, one-half game ahead of the New York Yankees.

Fisk was batting with the bases loaded and one out.

"Their infield and outfield were playing in and their pitcher (Larry Anderson) had to give me something good to hit," Fisk said. "I was just trying to hit the ball hard."

Fisk lined the ball over the head of Chicago centerfielder Chet Lemon.

In other AL games Monday night, Texas blanked Cleveland 3-0 and Kansas City defeated the Yankees 8-3. In the National League, the New York Mets downed Atlanta 7-1, Cincinnati edged Philadelphia 5-4 and Montreal nipped Houston 3-2.

It was Boston's fifth straight victory and eighth in the last nine games.

Relief specialist Bill Campbell, Boston's fourth pitcher, picked up the victory by retiring the last six Chicago batters.

Rangers 3, Indians 0

Burt Blyleven's four-hit shutout was backed by home runs by Juan Beniquez and Burt Campaneris as Texas downed Cleveland. Only John Lowenstein was able to bother Blyleven, 6-7, getting two of the Indians' hits and also walking once.

Beniquez, who also doubled, gave the Rangers a 1-0 lead in the fourth with his homer into the left field stands. It was the first hit off loser Dennis Eckersley, 6-5. Campaneris led off the sixth with his second homer of the year.

Two unbeatens remain in college playoffs

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Dewey Robinson of Southern Illinois was a 19th-round choice when the major league clubs culled the college ranks for talent earlier this month.

But Arizona State will attest that he's already a pitching craftsman.

"The mark of a good pitcher is to come up with the big pitch in the key situation," mused Arizona State Coach Jim Brock after Robinson stopped his No. 1 rated club 3-2. "And it was obvious that Dewey did just that."

Robinson, a 6-foot, 180-pound senior righthander, surrendered 11 hits but continually pitched out of jams.

The victory left No. 4 ranked Southern Illinois, 40-10, and South Carolina, 42-10-1, the only unbeatens among the six remaining teams in the double-elimination tournament.

Jim Lewis scattered eight hits and struck out 14 to let South Carolina stop crowd-favorite California State-Los Angeles 6-2. The two tournament unbeatens clash Wednesday night.

In completion of a game suspended by rain Sunday night, co-favorite Minnesota stayed in the chase by eliminating Baylor 4-3 in the 11th inning.

In elimination-round games Tuesday night, Arizona State, 53-12, faces Minnesota, 39-11, in a matchup of pre-tournament favorites and California State-Los Angeles, 41-21, tests Clemson, 42-9.

"I'm not an overpowering pitcher, so I have to change speeds and pitch smart to be effective," said Robinson, selected by the Chicago White Sox in the free agent draft.

"Sure, I gave up 11 hits because they're a good hitting team but I don't think that I was hit all that hard."

His club managed only four hits but coupled with three Arizona State errors it was enough. Neil Fiala drove in two of the Salukis' runs.

"When you hold a team to three runs you should be able to win," said Arizona State's Brock. "We didn't play well and that's my fault, I didn't have them ready to play."

Met trade talk result of feud over contract

ATLANTA (AP) — "You don't give away a Tom Seaver," said New York Mets' Manager Joe Torre.

The feud between the team's three-time Cy Young Award winner and Mets' management seems to have reached a head and Seaver appears to be headed elsewhere, with rumors rampant that Cincinnati is that place. Seaver must approve any deal the Mets make, and he said he would be willing to go to the world champion Reds.

"If there is a deal with the Reds, I would okay it," the 32-year-old right-hander said Monday night. "This thing has been coming to a head for a year and a half. Last year, I just kept things inside me, things I shouldn't have. Things were said in the press that branded me as an 'ingrate' during contract negotiations."

Seaver and the Mets conducted bitter contract talks prior to the 1976 season and the pitcher eventually signed a three-year, $750,000 contract. But that was before the lucrative free agent market. Now Seaver wants to renegotiate the contract and the Mets have refused.

In a statement released Monday by the Mets and signed by Board Chairman M. Donald Grant, the club explained its stand.

"So that there can be no misunderstanding regarding Tom Seaver and his association with us," the statement read, "we wish to announce we do not and never have wanted to trade Seaver.

"However, Tom now wished to renegotiate his contract that he was so happy with a year ago. Our board of directors voted unanimously against renegotiation.

"In the spring of 1976, Tom asked for and received a three-year contract and expressed his happiness with the terms. Never once during the 1976 season did he register anything but satisfaction with the contract.

"With the advent of the free agent draft, other players were promised more lucrative contracts. It was then that Tom expressed his unhappiness."

In addition to Cincinnati, the teams rumored to be bartering with the Mets for Seaver are the Pittsburgh Pirates, Philadelphia Phillies and Atlanta Braves. But the Reds appear to have the inside track.

Cincinnati's offer for Seaver was said to include ace reliever Rawly Eastwick, who has announced he will play out his option and leave the Reds after this season. Also rumored to be a part of the transaction are pitcher Gary Nolan and infielder Doug Flynn.

"The deal has already been made," Reds third baseman Pete Rose said Monday.

"I will never sign another contract with the Reds," Eastwick said Monday. "I'm being held out of games here and I can't pitch effectively unless I pitch often. I'm being played around with."

Eastwick also said he would not sign a contract this season and would become a free agent after the season instead.

"If a Seaver deal depends on my signing a contract, I'll mess it up," Eastwick insisted. "I won't sign a contract."

"Let's talk dry cleaning"

By CRAIG WHITE

FATHER'S DAY is one day of the year that's heartily welcomed by tired Dads. There isn't one of us who doesn't like the idea of being paid a special tribute. Maybe it's a little sentimental, but an annual day for pampering Pop and treating him like the proverbial lord of the manor seems only fitting. After all, he is the breadwinner!

Clothes are always among the most popular gifts for Fathers ... which makes us think of past centuries when men went around in much fancier plumage than they do today, with satin waistcoats and ruffled sleeves and powered wigs. Time was when you could give Dad a lace handkerchief or some black silk stockings as a gift ... but not today! (We can hear some Dads breathing a sigh of thanks.)

Of course, such things as elegant vests and sweaters are back in vogue for men ... and Dads are wearing brighter colors today. And why not? In the bird and animal kingdoms it's often the male who wears the brightest colors.

Even if Dad's clothes don't go to ruffles and satin, they still need regular care to have him look his best. To keep his suits and slacks, his new vests and sweaters and ties always looking smart and new, send them to us for careful, thorough cleaning.

Sutter's fork ball key to success

CHICAGO (AP) — If it weren't for the development of an exploding fork ball, Bruce Sutter could very well be back in Lancaster, Pa., working in a printing factory instead of pitching for the first place Chicago Cubs.

Sutter, who signed with the Cub organization in 1972, underwent surgery for a pinched nerve in his arm in 1973 and when the operation was over he had lost his fast ball.

"I was ready to chuck it in and go back to the printing presses," said Sutter. "But Fred Martin told me to try the fork ball. It was awkward at first and it took me a couple of months to really learn.

"But this year is the first time that I have reached the point where I can throw it for strikes anytime I want."

Sutter doesn't throw it for strikes all the time, however. "Why should I throw it for strikes when they swing at balls bouncing in the dirt?" he asked. "If they start taking, I'll throw the strikes."

The 25-year-old right-hander's record of 30 appearances with a 2-1 record, a 0.81 earned run average and 17 saves is amazing enough, but it pales when compared to his walks-strikeouts ratio. In 55 innings pitched, Sutter has yielded but seven walks — two of them intentional — against 63 strikeouts.

Ordinarily, a pitcher who records two strikeouts for every walk can expect a winning record. A 3-1 ratio is a sign of greatness. Sutter's ratio in simple arithmetic is 7-1.

"He's the greatest relief pitcher that I've seen in my 45 years in baseball," said Cubs Manager Herman Franks. "Name me a better one? You can't do it. Compare his statistics with anyone else. Look at 'em, walks and strikeouts, hits and innings pitched. And remember they are all in tough situations. We never use him in games that are totally won or lost."

Sutter never alters his pitching style.

"Situations make no difference to me," he said. "I pitch the same way all the time whether I come in and the bases are loaded or start an inning from scratch. You are pitching against major leaguers. There are no soft touches. You can't relax. If you do, they'll knock you all over the lot."

Sutter is appreciative of the support he receives from Cub fans who are packing Wrigley Field these days. When his name is announced over the public address system, a loud cheer goes up and they cheer every strike he throws.

"Hell yes, I love it," said Sutter. "It pumps you up. But it's like everything else."

Sutter was kidded a lot in the press when in the first week of the season he claimed the Cubs would win the pennant.

"I said it and I meant it. What makes me mad is no sooner do we get into first place then everybody starts saying 'When are they going to fold?' Well, we're not going to fold. We might not win it but we'll be in contention all the way."

Headlines reflect trends in sports

By WILL GRIMSLEY

Catching up on the news:

Headline: "Cubs' Manager Herman Franks says Cards Have Best Team, Should Win National League East."

Hey, what kind of strategy is that? Wellington calls his troops together at Waterloo and says, "Well, this is goodbye, fellows. We're going out against that guy Napoleon. We will be torn to pieces."

General Ike, exhorting his forces before sending them off to the beaches of Normandy: "Sorry to do this, men. We're going to get our heads blown off." Sitting Bull to his feathered friends at the Battle of Little Big Horn: "Pale face, him very tough. Custer get all our scalps."

Headline: "FCC Investigates CBS' Winner-Take-All Televised Tennis Series for Deluding Public With False Advertising."

C'Mon, who's fooling whom? Reports that Jimmy Connors got the whole bag and Rod Laver and John Newcombe got nothing in those "Championship of the World" matches at Las Vegas never taken seriously. Only the naive accepted it.

It was strictly a promotional gimmick — show business. Even Promoter Bill Riordan, who thought up the package, never peddled the winner-take-all theme, telling everyone within hearing distance that the money breakdown was about 2-1. All the papers printed it at the time. The latest flap is a spinoff of the boxing mess, which was badly handled but also a victim of press agentry.

Headline: "Pitcher Tom Seaver of the Mets Offers Olive Branch to Angered M. Donald Grant — Met Boss Refuses to Respond."

We have to give a demerit to Grant on this one. The feud between the best pitcher in baseball and the chairman of the board is ridiculous on the face of it, fanned by outside interests.

There is nothing arrogant about Seaver being unhappy over his contract or failure of the Mets to try to make the team a contender. True, Grant may have invested some money in the club but Seaver and other Mets have invested their lives, their careers.

Grant has an obligation to listen. When things aren't right at the office, you go to the boss.

Headline: "Reggie Jackson Gives Teammates Cold Shoulder After Hitting Home Run." Headline: "Thurman Munson Refuses to Shake Hands with Reggie Jackson."

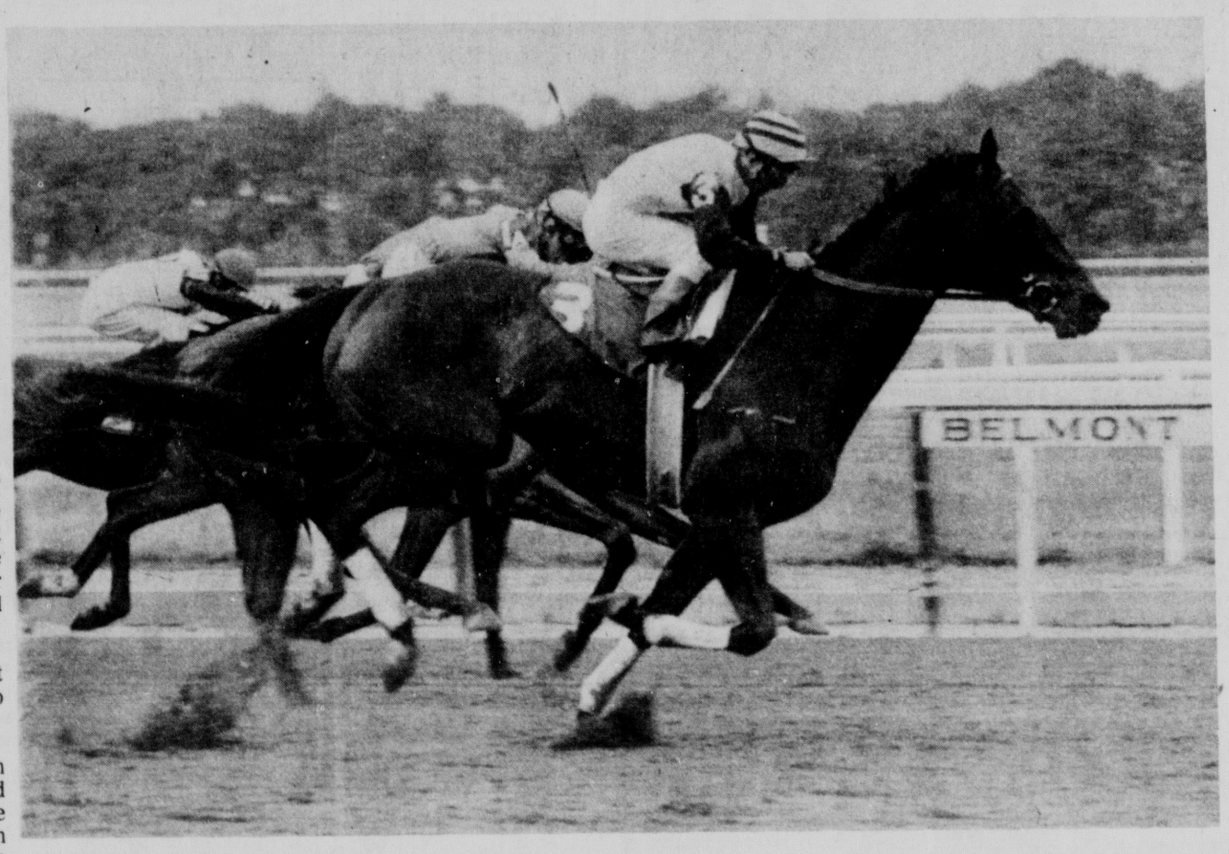

Headline: "Jackson Shakes Hands with Munson after Munson Homers."

Headline: "Jackson-Munson Feud Eases — All is Well Again with the Yankees."

Get off it, fellows. You're not playing one-eyed-cat in the corner lot. You didn't bring that bat and ball. You're grown men, making as much money as the chairman of the board at General Motors.

It's true you wear short pants, but remember you're adults involved in a business as well as a game. It's not just for fun. It's for blood and for customers and greenbacks.

Leave your petty jealousies at home and concentrate on keeping your eye on the ball. Thanks to George Steinbrenner's open pocketbook, you should win it all in spite of yourselves.

Super horse

With Willie Shoemaker in the saddle, Forego, three-time Horse of the Year, makes a powerful stretch run to win the $50,000-added Nassau County Handicap Monday at Belmont Park. The victory moved Forego into second place on the all-time money-winning list for thoroughbred racing, behind Kelso. (UPI)

ABA survivors hurting

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — It's been nearly a year since the owners of National Basketball Association teams cast a lifeline to the members of the sinking American Basketball Association, and those who grabbed it are finding the price of survival to be steep indeed.

Just how steep was expected to be a prime topic of conversation at the annual summer meetings of the NBA Board of Governors, which opened today and will continue through Friday at the Hotel del Coronado.

It was at last year's summer meetings, June 17, 1976, at Hyannis, Mass., that an agreement was announced which brought an end to the 9-year-old ABA, with four teams being absorbed into the NBA. Now, nearly 12 months later, those four survivors — the Denver Nuggets, Indiana Pacers, New York Nets and San Antonio Spurs — are still floundering.

The debts accumulated in their years in the ABA, the $3.2 million entrance fee, the cost of buying out their ABA brothers who were not included in the merger, the legal fees and costs involved in settling a myriad of lawsuits, the constantly rising operating expenses and their agreement not to share in television revenue — all have contributed to the financial plight of the former ABA teams.

And it's a serious plight — sources say at least one of the four clubs has debts in the ritzy neighborhood of $10 million.

The Denver Nuggets, for example, who played to better than 95 per cent of capacity this year and led the NBA in attendance, still had to withdraw a proposed stock offering because of a shaky financial outlook caused by a backlog of debts.

But the most troubled of the teams is the Indiana Pacers, who could not meet their June 1 player payroll on time and have been conducting a long and fruitless search for new financial support.

Each of the four teams owes the league $200,000 by June 30 as the final part of the $3.2 million entrance fee, and for the Pacers, who are having trouble paying their day-to-day expenses, that represents a major obstacle.

Also this week, the governors will hear an update from Comissioner Larry O'Brien on the status of his five-year plan for the growth of the NBA, as well as wide-ranging reviews of other league matters including television, scheduling, on-court violence, the status of relationships with the players' and referees' associations and the possibility of adding a third official for NBA games.

Team coaches and general managers will be meeting among themselves today and official business will be taken up formally on Wednesday.

Super Bowl NFL topic

NEW YORK (AP) — Eight cities were to place bids for future Super Bowls before National Football League owners today at the NFL's annual spring meetings.

The cities bidding for the NFL championship games of 1979, 1980 and 1981 were New Orleans, the site of the 1978 Super Bowl; Pasadena, Calif., which hosted the game earlier this year; Dallas; Seattle; Pontiac, Mich.; Houston; Los Angeles and Miami. Houston, where the game would be held in Rice Stadium, seems to have the inside track for the 1979 game.

Also on the agenda for the owners was the matter of retroactive compensation. The league has to decide whether a team that signed a free agent who played out his option with another team owes any compensation to the player's original club. That includes any player who jumped to the World Football League, then back to the NFL, and a player who simply played out his option and signed with another NFL team.

For instance, do the New York Giants owe the Miami Dolphins anything for signing fullback Larry Csonka after the WFL folded? Csonka had left the Dolphins to sign with Memphis of the WFL. And are the New York Jets entitled to compensation from the Washington Redskins, who signed John Riggins after the running back played out his option with New York?

The owners also were expected to discuss future television revenues with Commissioner Pete Rozelle. The league's pacts with the three TV networks are up after this season. Bidding for the new contracts is expected to be heavy, with ABC expected to pursue rights to the Super Bowl. ABC, which televises NFL games on Monday nights during the season, has never telecast the Super Bowl, which will be played in prime time for the first time in 1978.

As an offshoot of that matter, the owners will hear a presentation from Bill Sargent, who is reportedly prepared to offer $400 million for five years worth of playoff games. Sargent would put those games on pay TV.

Also on the agenda were discussions of future Pro Bowl sites, with Pontiac, Mich., New Orleans and Honolulu expected to make bids. The owners also were to act upon a proposed rule change that would ban the head slap used by defensive linemen on blockers.

Falcons sign two

ATLANTA (AP) — Edgar Fields, a defensive end from Texas A&M, and Dave Farmer, a fullback from the University of Southern California, have signed contracts with the Atlanta Falcons, the National Football League club announced Monday.

Fields, who played three seasons for the Aggies at both defensive end and tackle, was the Falcons' third-round draft pick. Farmer, who averaged 8.5 yards per carry as a senior, was the Falcons' 11th-round pick.

Signs for bonus

The Twins signed the 17-year-old left-handed pitcher from Huachuca Ariz., Monday for what club officials described as a "sizeable bonus."

Opening lead — J ♠

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Just look at your hand and dummy and plan your play at any heart contract. It looks simple enough unless trumps break 5-0, but we will tell you about trumps. They break 3-2 like nice trump suits should.

Now the entire play is in the club suit. If you lose one club trick you make six; if you lose two, you make five. Offhand, it looks as if there is a simple line of play. Just lead a club from dummy, play your king and later on try a finesse for the jack with dummy's 10.

There is a better line of play. Start by playing three rounds of trumps. Then cash your spades and diamonds to come down to a four-card ending. Meanwhile, if you have counted you will know that West is holding two spades and two clubs while East is holding four of the five clubs he started with.

Now you lead a club toward dummy and rise with the queen. East takes his ace and leads the suit back whereupon you duck. This line wins unless West's two clubs were jack-small.

Ask the Jacobys

A Montana reader wants to know what we rebid in standard American after our partner has raised us from one to three spades. We hold: ♠ A Q x x x x ♥ x ♦ A K x ♣ K J x.

We go right into Blackwood with every intention of bidding six if partner shows us one ace. If he shows two aces we will ask for kings with five notrump.

Ann Landers

Alcoholic sends an open letter

Dear Ann: My boyfriend and I have shared the experience of alcoholism. Together we've come to understand the severity of this widespread disease. I hope you will publish this open letter. Maybe it will help others. Thank you.—Becky

An Open Letter To My Family:

I am an alcoholic. I need help.

Don't allow me to lie to you and accept it for the truth. For in so doing, you encourage me to lie. The truth may be painful but please insist on it.

Don't let me outsmart you. It will only teach me to become a more skillful schemer and it will reduce my respect for you at the same time.

Don't let me exploit you or take advantage of you. When you do this you become an accomplice to my evasion of responsibility.

Don't lecture, moralize, scold, praise or blame me when I'm drunk or sober. And don't pour my liquor down the sink. You may feel better, but the situation will become worse.

Don't believe me when I make promises I have broken repeatedly. This is just my method of postponing pain. And don't let me alter an agreement. If I say I will do something, make me keep my word.

Don't lose your temper with me. It will destroy you and diminish any possibility of helping me.

Don't allow your anxiety for me to compel you to do things I must do for myself.

Don't cover up or abort the consequences of my drinking. It may prevent a catastrophe but it will perpetuate the illness.

Above all, don't run away from reality as I do. Alcoholism, my illness, gets worse as my drinking continues. Start now to learn, to understand, and to plan for my recovery. I need help from a doctor, a counselor or a psychologist, a recovered alcoholic, from God. I cannot do the job alone.

I hate myself, but I love you. To stand by and do nothing is the worst choice you can make. Please help me. — Your Alcoholic

Dear Becky: "Your Alcoholic" makes some excellent points. He asks you at the end to help him but he doesn't say anything about helping himself. Please hand him back one of his best sentences: "To stand by and do nothing is the worst choice you can make."

Ask him to let you know when he has attended his first meeting.

Dear Ann Landers: I am an employee in a public relations firm. Many friends from out of town write to me at my office.

My boss has a habit of opening my personal mail. I have asked him repeatedly not to do this, but he continues to do it. His excuse: "Everything that comes into this office is supposed to be business and I am entitled to see it."

Is he right? I'd like your opinion. — Molly

Dear Molly: He is wrong. What's more, he is violating the law. Mail addressed to you is your personal property. Bad manners is one thing — but the legal implications put an entirely different face on the problem. Tell him so.

Are your parents too strict? Hard to reach? Ann Landers's booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom," could help you bridge the generation gap. Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Hermann reviews Fair operation

Jerry Hermann, Missouri State Fair director, in a talk before the Sedalia Rotary Club Monday at Ramada Inn, reviewed the operation of the fairgrounds during his two years as director and stated the 104 buildings on the grounds were generally in good condition. However, he said, there is a need for more modern buildings with heating and air conditioning that could be used all year by various groups for meetings and exhibitions, and the rental income would further reduce the need for state supplemental funds. He noted that of the $1.3 million taken in by the Fair during the past year, $60,000 came from rentals.

He called attention to the bill in the Missouri Legislature which would increase the admission charge from $1 to $1.50, and at the same time allow children under 6 years old to be admitted free, and noted this would increase the admissions income by $100,000.

Because it would be a great help to the director of the Department of Agriculture, Hermann stated he favors the appointment of a State Fair Board, which would represent all of the state, to help plan and operate the Fair each year.

"Fair personnel will be working again this year to make the Missouri State Fair a true showcase for Missouri for everyone, and," Hermann said, "we hope it results in continuing increased attendance."

The program was arranged by Jack Osborn, who introduced the speaker.

Bruce McCully, club vice president, presided over the meeting. He called attention to the district assembly meeting to be held at Buffalo, Mo., on June 25, and urged all officers and board members to plan to attend. He also called attention to the installation of officers dinner meeting to be held on June 27 and suggested club members make arrangements with their wives to attend.

Guests for the meeting were Thomas R. Gaines, Warrensburg Rotarian; the Rev. Hubert Neth, Warrensburg, with Kirk McCrary; Bill Walch, Princeton, N.J., with his father, Louis Walch; and Dr. John T. Anderson, Sedalia, with Dr. Ron Shuler. They were introduced by R. L. Wolf.

Mrs. Orr to abide by board's decision

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The state Board of Cosmetology, in the wake of a disputed vote for executive secretary last month, has decided to keep Carlene Orr in the job temporarily and delay a permanent appointment for 60 days.

Meeting behind closed doors Monday, the board voted 3-1 to rescind the hiring of Mrs. Orr as executive secretary and appoint her to the post for an interim period. During the interim, applications for the job will be taken, and Mrs. Orr will be among those considered when the board makes its final decision, the board said.

A former board member, Mrs. Orr resigned from the board recently and was appointed executive secretary. That vote, however, was disputed because Mrs. Orr had voted for herself.

Following the board action in May to appoint Mrs. Orr executive secretary, published reports showed that Sen. Norman Merrell, D-Monticello, had made $1,900 worth of long distance telephone calls to Mrs. Orr's Shelbina beauty shop during a 19-month period in 1975 and 1976.

Merrell, who is president pro tem of the Senate, claims the 543 calls, made at taxpayers' expense, were on state business and constituent problems.

Betty Crow, current president of the board, was the sole dissenter in the vote to rescind the hiring and appoint Mrs. Orr temporarily. Mrs. Crow did vote in favor of a motion made earlier in the meeting to simply rescind the hiring of Mrs. Orr— but that motion failed on a 2-2 vote.

Mrs. Crow, however, will not be voting when the matter is reconsidered later this summer as her term ends this month. She said Monday she does not expect to be reappointed, and does not want to be reappointed.

Contacted at her home after the meeting, Mrs. Orr said she would abide by the board's decision, and would still seek to be considered for the permanent job.

"But right now," she added, "we have license renewals to get out, and I'm going to stay out there and get them out." The cosmetology board is one of 16 professional licensing boards in the state licensing division.

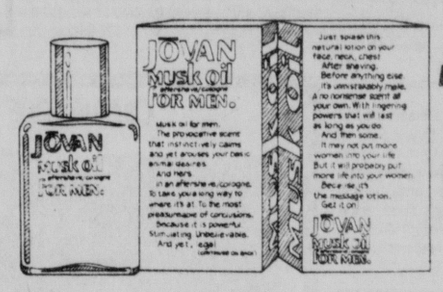

George Uffman, former director of the division of Professional Registration and Licensing which oversees the board's activities, resigned after Mrs. Orr got the job. Uffman claimed that state Sens. Merrell and Mary Gant, D-Kansas City, had interfered with the board's activities to get Mrs. Orr hired.

Meeting with the board Monday was James Sullivan, director of the state Department of Consumer Affairs, Regulation and Licensing and a representative of the state Attorney General's office.

Sullivan said the board already had five applications for the position on file. Among those being considered besides Mrs. Orr is Jean Eikermann. Mrs. Eikermann was executive secretary before Mrs. Orr was appointed to succeed her.

Board members met to reconsider Mrs. Orr's hiring on June 4, but could take not action.

New judge foresees hard work

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — The new federal judge in Kansas City says his appointment will mean prestige — and a lot of work.

"This is quite an honor," Russell G. Clark, a Springfield attorney said Monday after President Jimmy Carter nominated him for the U.S. District Court seat.

"I will have to do a lot of studying to become an effective trial judge. It's quite different from being an attorney. I've just got to work and study."

Clark, 51, will fill the vacancy in the court for the Western District of Missouri left by Judge William H. Becker, 67, who stepped down Feb. 8. Becker, who has assumed senior judge status, was succeeded as the court's chief judge by Judge John W. Oliver.

Born on an Oregon County farm, Clark has been with the Springfield law firm of Woolsey, Fisher, Clark, Whiteker and Stenger since his graduation from the University of Missouri law school in 1952, specializing in damage suits and appellate work.

Clark is also a close friend and supporter of U.S. Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., and reports had circulated since April that he might replace Becker. Federal judges are recommended by the state's U.S. senators.

Highlights of Monday's legislative activity

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Here are the highlights of Monday's activity in the Missouri Legislature:

Senate

—Presented a compromise prison proposal to the House, seeking the construction of a maximum security prison in mid-Missouri.

—Approved and sent to the governor authority for cities and counties to issue revenue bonds without a public vote.

—Approved and sent back to the House a conflict of interest measure for state officials.

House

—Rejected a proposed Senate compromise on funding for a new state prison.

—Passed and returned to the Senate increased income tax breaks for the low-income elderly to ease the property tax burden.

—Revived and sent to the governor requirements that group insurance policies include coverage for alcoholism treatment.

—Approved and sent to the governor expansion of the Medicaid program to cover eyeglasses, dentures, hearing aids and wheelchairs.

—Approved and sent the governor revision of the state pesticide laws.

—Approved and returned to the Senate a bill of rights for the blind.

—Approved and sent to the governor creation of a special committee on employment of the handicapped.

—Approved and sent to the governor revision in state school laws including a lowering in the age to serve on school boards to 24.

—Set for a vote of the people a proposed constitutional amendment calling for a panel of appeals court judges instead of Supreme Court commissioners to redistrict the legislature if no agreement can be reached through other methods.
